OCTOBER 8, 1913

MAXIMILIAN'S SEMI-CEN- TENARY

If Mexico can take time from picking and dimandering the poor little peace bird to recall a national event, she will stick a pin on the calendar page marked "Oct. 3." For on that day began the romantic connection of Maximilian, archduke of Austria, with the country of the Aztec. On that day, in 1863, he accepted the offer of the Mexican throne, and, backed by French bayonets and Napoleonic approval, he soon after landed in Mexico and was proclaimed emperor.

Much has happened in the half century that lies between the October date of Maximilian's acceptance of the imperial purple and this Oct.
3, when Mexico is making ready to go to the polls to choose a presidential leader. And yet, with all that has transpired, the people of Mexico are but little changed. In these intervening 50 years they have probably made less progress in education, culture and self-control than any people on earth with like opportunities.

The same spirit of restless rebellion that snatched the crown from the unfortunate Maximilian and shot him to death is today rampant and uncontrolled. There is an educated, good-citizen element in the country, but it is not strong enough to leaven the whole populace. The rule of Diaz was successful in that it enforced peace, but it failed in fitting the people for any sort of responsibility in public affairs. The common people are too ignorant to see anything beyond the pesos the leaders pay them for fighting or the loot that is a part and parcel of war. Hence they are always ready to fight and to kill.

It would be a great forward movement for Mexico if this presidential election, to be held on the fiftieth anniversary of the Maximilian enterprise, could be marked by the fairness and sobriety of thought the occasion demands.

To the outsider it seems that with this half century's end Mexico has come to the parting of the ways—to the time when she must either take a new path of law and national uplift or else keep on in the road to ruin, which is already red with the blood of Maximilian and Madero, and which can end only in the loss of her national prestige and individuality.

The election next month put the acid test to her ability to rehabilitate herself and catch the step of peace and progress and culture.—Commercial Appeal.

ECONOMY OF ADVERTISING

What is true of the Arizona Star in the matter of advertising is also true of every paper that covers a territory which any merchant or business man wishes to reach with inducements to purchase his wares.
The Star says:

Some people seem to think that much of the money spent in advertising is wasted. But does it seem likely that the business men of the United States would spend their billions in this way unless it produced returns?

The simple truth is that advertising is the least expensive form of salesmanship. To send a man around to canvass for your goods to the people who read this newspaper would cost a hundred or more times as much as the price of an advertisement in this newspaper. And the canvasser would not get as good results as the newspaper ad. brings.

"I'm Thinking of Thee; Only Thee"

Ad carem unam quam semper dmbao, hoc inscriptus est.

When Aurora's light is breaking,
And old earth from dreams awakes; While sweet songs the wild woods are filling,
With music divine and thrilling; Where "Old Nature," with voice up-raising,
Her Creator now is praising,
In one joyful, heartfelt melody;
Then I'm thinking of thee; only thee.

When the noonday sun is beaming,
And his golden gleams are streaming; While soft shadows now are drifting,
From my soul in love up-lifting, With full heart of joy out-pouring;
Far beyond earth scenes is soaring,
And I could not happier be;
Then I'm thinking of thee; only thee.

When the evening rays are slanting;
Where the sunset scene is enchanting,
The whole, wide landscape is filling,
With pictures bright and entrilling,
And when the moonbeams are falling,
Where the whippoorwill is calling,
To his fond mate far o'er the sea,
Then I'm thinking of thee; only thee.

When the shades of night are numbering,
And my mind in dreams is slumbering, While love-light all bright and gleaming, Into my happy heart comes streaming, Like some aureole enlightening, All thoughts and fancies brightening, Till heart and soul are filled with glee,
Then I'm thinking of thee; only thee.

When shall come the last sweet "hom-ing,"
And my feet have ceased from roaming, Over earth's love-lit scenes entrancing, While my eyes Heavenward are glancing,
And my soul on swift wings is soaring Far above the wild waves roaring, In the confines of Death's great sea; Then I will be thinking of thee; only thee.

BOWIE'S NEW PAPER

The Bowie Enterprise is the name of the new paper published at Bowie, Arizona. Its first issue on September 12th was an edition of twenty pages, replete with information of the San Simon valley as an agricultural section and of Bowie as a home town. The Enterprise is needed in the Bowie section and should be earnestly supported by the people.

The Family Cough Medicine

In every home there should be a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, ready for immediate use when any member of the family contracts a cold or cough. Prompt use will stop the spread of sickness. S. A.
Stid, of Mason, Mich., writes: "My whole family depends upon Dr.
King's New Discovery as the best cough and cold medicine in the world. Two 50c. bottles cured me of pneumonia." Thousands of other families have been equally benefited and depend entirely upon Dr. King's New Discovery to cure their coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles.
Every dose helps. Price, 50c. and $1.00. All Druggists. H. E. Bucklen & Co., Philadelphia or St. Louis.

THE SABBATH DAY

Last Sunday there was a Scotchman arrived in New York on board a vessel from Glasgow, and he had in his possession a piece of woolen cloth on which the duty amounted to $2.53. The customs officials demanded the payment of this duty when they discovered the cloth.

"My mother taught me never to trade on the Lord's day," said the Scotchman, August K. Christopherson, "I cannot do it. I would rather lose the good wool than enter into financial transaction on this day."

"It is only the duty we ask. It is right for you to pay it," replied the customs officials.

"No," replied the sturdy Scotchman "I will abide by my mother's teachings. I will return tomorrow with the silver. There is no luck in Sunday bargains," and the business had to go over until the following day.

It was only a trivial incident, perhaps, but it serves to illustrate the sturdiness of Scotch character, as well as the value of a mother's early training. Christopherson was taught by his mother in childhood days that it was wrong to transact any kind of business on the Sabbath, and this great truth was so impressed on his mind that in manhood it has become a fixed principle—he will always remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy, thanks to the wisdom and piety of his grand old Scotch mother.

The world would be better if it contained more Christophersons.
There is no going around that fact.

Eczema and Itching Cured

The soothing, healing medication

THE EXEMPTION LAW

Went Into Effect October 1, 1913, and Exempts
Many Things

There has been so much inquiry recently about the new exemption law of Arizona which goes into effect on October 1st, that it is printed herewith in condensed and comprehensive form. The law provides for exemption from execution the following:

1. The family Bible.
2. A seat or pew in a house of worship.
3. Necessary household, table and kitchen furniture belonging to the debtor. (Articles specified.) 4. The tools or implements of a mechanic or artisan necessary to carrying on his trade, the instruments and chest of a surgeon, physician, surveyor, engineer or dentist necessary to practice of their profession, with the professional library of attorneys, judges, ministers of the gospel, editors, school and music teachers, and their necessary office furniture; the instruments used by music teachers in giving instruction and instruments used by a musician in his practice or calling.
5. The sewing machine and implements of a seamstress.
6. One watch, one typewriter, one sewing machine, one bicycle.
7. Five milk cows.
8. The camping outfit of every prospector, including his mining tools, saddles and burros.
9. The farming utensils and implements of husbandry. (Specified.) 10. Poultry not exceeding in value $25.
11. Feed necessary for use of debtor and family six months.
12. Two horses or two mules and their harness, one cart or wagon, one dray or truck, one coupe, one hack or carriage, or one automobile by the use of which a cartman, drayman or hackman earns his living, and one horse and vehicle used by a professional man.
13. Printing equipment not exceeding $2,000 and stock in trade not exceeding $400 in value.
14. Library and apparatus of a university or school.
15. Insurance money paid to a widow or child not exceeding $10,000.
16. Moneys arising from fire or other insurance on property exempt from sale or execution.
17. Fraternal insurance money.
18. Damages recovered for wrongful taking of property exempted.
19. Earnings of a minor child of any debtor or proceeds thereof by reason of any liability of such debtor not contracted for the special benefit of such minor child.
20. One-half of the earnings, wages or salary of any person for his personal service rendered at any time within thirty days next preceding the levy of attachment, garnishment or execution when such earnings are necessary for the use of his family.

Chronic Dyspepsia

The following unsolicited testimonial should certainly be sufficient to give hope and courage to persons afflicted with chronic dyspepsia: "I have been a chronic dyspeptic for years, and of all the medicine I have taken, Chamberlain's Tablets have done me more good than anything else," says W. G. Mattison, No. 7, Sherman St., Hornellsville, N. Y.

CAVALRY AT STATE FAIR

Capt. Schultz, Ninth Cavalry, Will Take Detail to Phoenix

Captain Schultz of the Ninth Cavalry, located at Douglas, Arizona, has been directed to make a detail of his best men to the Arizona State Fair, the first week in November 3-8, 1913.

The Ninth Cavalry boasts of the finest horsemanship, and the best trained horses in the world.

People who have seen high school horses at the circus and at various horse shows, admit they have never seen anything to equal the wonderful horsemanship of the men of the Ninth Cavalry, and the human like intelligence of the horses which they ride.

Roman bareback riding, hurdle leaping, Russian Cossack, blood curdling feats, cowboy pick-ups, all are out done by the wonderful horsemanship of this special detail from the Ninth Cavalry.

FOREST NOTES

The United States forest service is using gasoline railway speeders for fire protection purposes. They follow up trains on steep grades, where sparks thrown out by forced draft are likely to start fires along the right of way.

At the National Conservation Congress to be held in Washington, November 18-20, the subject of forestry will be handled by a main committee, with sub committees, which will report on federal and state forest policies, forest taxation, fires, lumbering, planting, utilization, forest schools and scientific forest investigations.

Elk have been found in the Uinta national forest, Utah, for the first time in many years. Since they are not from shipments from the Jackson Hole country to neighboring forests, the state and federal officials are gratified at this apparent increase in big game, as the result of protection.

A Gentle and Effective Laxative

A mild, gentle and effective laxative is what people demand when suffering from constipation. Thou-
